Church for appellant. slightly injured did not go to a hospital.

Just who was first to discover the fire is not known, but Mr. Collins, the proprietor, whose room was not far from where the blaze started, was about the first to leave his room. The bright light and the smell of smoke aroused him, and when he saw that his wife was safe he hurried to other rooms to arouse the occupants. Sleeping in a small room on the landing the second and third floors was Mr. J. M. Malambrie, an elderly man who lived there before Mr. Collins took charge of the hotel. This guest was sound asleep and had Mr. Collins been several minutes later in reaching his room his rescue would ginia, generally fair tonight and Saturday: have been difficult. As it was, Mr. Col-lins had to go almost through the flames fresh southwest to northwest winds, brisk to reach his room. Policeman Gives Alarm.

Policeman Newkirk, who was doing duty in the vicinity of the hotel, discovered the fire about this time from the outside and turned in an alarm. A second and third alarm followed the arrival of the firemen, and twelve companies in all responded. Before the firemen reached the scene Policeman Newkirk procured a ladder and went to work getting people out of the building. Fortunately there were not many guests in the house, the inaugural visitors having all left there several days ago. The women, who were rescued went to the National Hotel. They were in their night clothes, and after the flames had been extinguished their wearing apparel was sent to them. Policeman Newkirk won applause by his work of rescuing women from the burning building.

Mr. and Mrs. Strand, who occupied a room on the third floor, had an experience more exciting and dangerous than any of the other guests. The room they occupied opens into the hall, where the flames had complete control. Mr. Strand was aroused by the smell of smoke and realizing the dangerous position of the room he hurriedly opened the door to see if escape through the hallway were possible. Much to his consternation he found that the door of his room was actually burning, and the blaze almost enveloped him.

The following were the readings of the thermometer and barometer at the weather bureau for the twenty-four hours beginning Smoke poured into the room so thick and fast that Mr.Strand experienced some trouin closing the door. He became satis Thermometer—March 14, 4 p.m., 56; 8 p.m., 47; 12 midnight, 40. March 15, 4 a.m., 37; 8 a.m., 33; 12 noon, 36; 2 p.m., 47. Both Jump From Window. Without stopping to save his valuables or to put on any additional wearing apparel, Mr. Strand broke out a window sash and then threw a mattress to the tin roof Following this he made a jump, but missed the mattress and landed on the tin roof. Then he called to his wife to jump, and as she did so he stood beneath the window and caught her. Her weight was too much for him, however, and she went against the tin roof with such force that her leg was badly cut. After reaching the tin roof they were hemmed in by four walls, and it became necessary either to make another jump or remain where they were and risk suffoca tion. They chose the former alternative, and in order to drop from the roof to the bar room it was necessary to smash one of the big skylights. This was done, and the couple went through the opening, dropping on the stone floor of the saloon, fifteen feet below. No particular injury was sustained this time.

In order to get out of the saloon it be-came necessary to break out one of the teen minutes after sunset and extinguished big panes of glass in the front door soon as Mrs. Strand reached the sidewalk she was hurried to the National Hotel, day. Blood from her injured limb had saturated her gown, and people on the street who saw her taken from the building thought she had been fatally hurt.

He received only a few scratches, and Frank Mann, a neighboring saloonkeeper, provided him with the necessary clothing. Mr. Collins, the proprietor, was about the last person to leave the building, and although he was so severely cut and burned he insisted on remaining to see that no one was left behind. Just before leaving the building Mr. Ketchum jumped from the window of his room on the second floor. were in danger they summoned the Emergency Hospital ambulance. Dr. Sperro re-sponded, but the injured people objected to being removed in the vehicle. They employed private vehicles and went to the hospital in them. Several persons who habeen slightly injured refused treatment.

Character of the Injuries. Upon the arrival of Mr. Collins at the hospital the doctors found that both his hands and forearms, as well as his neck and the right side of his face been badly burned. He had also received several slight cuts from coming in contact with broken glass. Mr. Ketchum had sustained a severe fracture of the left leg, his back was sprained and his side bruised. Mr. Donohoe, who lost his life, it is be lieved was rendered unconscious by the smoke before the flames reached his room. He was burned about the head, feet and hands, and it is thought he inhaled the flame. He was about sixty years old and had been employed as a clerk in the pension office for about ten years. He came here from New York with his father about the year 1861. His father kept a saloon and eating house at the corner of 6th and A streets southeast. The man who lost his life this morning was employed as clerk in Willard's Hotel many years ago, and he afterward held similar positions in the Metropolitan and National. Estimated Damages. When a Star reporter visited the scene of the fire this morning there was but one man about the place who was willing to give his name. No one who was there seemed to be able to tell how many guests were in the house last night) and there was no register to be found which contained their names. It was stated that the register had been water-soaked, and that the names had disappeared from the pages. The carriage and harness were damaged and the horse was slightly injured. Burke was released on collateral for his appearance.

THE SATURDAY STAR. Second Installment of Anthony Hope's Latest and Best Novel.

The Saturday Star this week will contain the second installment of Anthony Hope's latest novel, which also promises to be his best. It will also contain another of Frank Carpenter's interesting and instructive articles on social conditions in New Zealand. Here are some of the other important features in the big literary supplement of amusing. THE SNOW BALL.

Young Ladies to Appear in Comedy for Junior Republic Benefit. The young ladies of Mrs. Somers' school, the Mount Vernon Seminary, have arranged to give a three-act farce comedy in the seminary hall tomorrow evening for the benefit of the Woman's League of the National Junior Republic. The comedy is entitled "The Snow Ball," and is said to be a very bright and pleasing effort. The The following deaths were reported to hall is located at 1100 M street, and tickets for the play have been placed on sale at the home of the president of the Woman's League, 1800 Massachusetts avenue; at Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood's, the Columbia flats, and Mrs. Archibald Hopkins', Dupont circle and Massachusetts avenue. The promised and the worthy charity for which it is planned will undoubtedly tend to bring out a very large and euthusiastic attend-ance. The National Junior Republic, wnich is located on the Newbold farm near Annapolis junction, has already accom-plished much good in making worthy citizens of homeless youths of the city, and its sphere of usefulness is rapidly widening.

Jolly Masqueraders.

Mid-Lent was celebrated by the Wash ington Saengerbund last night with a masquerade party, and a large number enjoyed a jolly evening. There were many original costumes, and prizes were awarded as follows: First group prize, to the school, headed by Mr. Minster; second group prize, to the female band, headed by Mr. Hutterly; first gentleman prize to S. Mr. Hutterly; first gentleman prize to S. W. Wilbert, as "nondescript;" second prize to Norman Luchs, as colored gentleman; third prize to Herbert Levy, school boy; first lady prize to Mrs. Blan-une Altrup, as child nurse; second lady prize to Miss Sarah West, as Kate Greenaway; third lady prize to Bessie Mitchell, as "Lady Colored."

Verdict for Plaintiff.

A jury in Circuit Court No. 2 reported a verdict yesterday awarding the plaintiff $500 in the suit at law instituted by Mary E. Law against Eliza T. Ward to recover damages in the sum of $10,000 for alleged false arrest. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant misplaced some jewelry and had the plaintiff taken into custody, accusing her of the theft of the articles. Later, it was stated, the defendant found the jewelry where she had placed it.

THEORIES ABOUT FOOD

ALSO A FEW FACTS ON THE SAME SUBJECT We hear much nowadays about health foods and hygienic living, about vegetarianism and many other fads along the same line.

Restaurants may be found in the large cities where no meat, pastry or coffee is served and the food crank is in his glory, and arguments and theories galore advanced to prove that meat was never intended for human stomachs, and almost make us believe that our sturdy ancestors who lived four score years in robust health on roast beef, pork and mutton must have been grossly ignorant of the laws of health. Our forefathers had other things to do than formulate theories about the food they ate. A warm welcome was extended to any kind from A healthy appetite and common sense are excel lent guides to follow in matters of diet, and s mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more puickly than vegetables and grains. Dr. Julius Remmson on this subject savs: Nerv ous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat meat and plenty of it. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily corrected by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsis Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several housand grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three hours, and no matter how weak the stom ach may be, no trouble will be experienced if a sia Tablets, because they supply the pep diastase necessary to perfect digestion, and every form of indigestion will be overcome by their use. That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspeptics should eat plenty of meat and insure its proper digestion by the daily use of a safe harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natu-

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natural digestive principles, pepain, diastase, fruit acids, and salts, which actually perform the work of digestion. Cheap cathartic medicines, masquerading under the name of dyspepsia cures, are useless for indigestion, as they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its many forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food, and the sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the dyspepsia is to make daily use at meal time of a preparation ing at 1610 83d street and employed as
